

Peonies VII

Turning it over....

As most of you know, one of our favorite things is to participate in the NW Flower and Garden Show with our State Landscaping Association, WALP. This year we combined forces with the State Nursery Association, WSNLA and knocked it out of the park with our collaborative garden. What a great experience and since we were able to take a back seat and just help out where needed it was a lot less stressful than in prior years. And pure magic that it won just about every award, including the coveted Founder's Cup! Kudos to Rob Boyker and Kirsten Lints who led the charge for both Associations. (below; two views of the WALP/WSNLA garden, Natures Studio and left; us with 7 Awards won)

"Strive not to be a success, but rather to be of value."
~Albert Einstein

"When I let go of what I am, I become what I might be.."

"Continuous effort – not strength or intelligence – is the key to unlocking our potential."
~Winston Churchill

March Fun Facts....

Although spring doesn't actually start until 20th, March is known as the month for new beginnings, new life, spring, resurrection and fertility. The phrase, Mad like a March hare refers to the unpredictable manner and overly excitable antics of hares during their breeding season. The phrase, March comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb refers to the wild and unpredictable winter weather still occurring early in the month and the milder, warmer days of spring by the end of the month. World Water Day is held on the 22nd and reminds me how precious a resource we have and to always conserve. The least known celebration happens on the 14th - Save a Spider Day ☺.

News & Noteworthy

Jeff and I will be presenting our experience with Alternative Fuels for DOE funded Cascadia Consulting. We are leading the charge to reducing our carbon footprint (and noise pollution) in the landscaping industry.

We are back to weekly maintenance starting on Monday, March, 3rd. If you are interested in any lawn renovations, mulch, hardscapes including patios, water features, fire-pits or other landscaping projects, please know our calendar starts to get backed up this time of year. So plan to call soon for any spring projects.
